

Turabian Style Citations (Author-Date Style)

This guide provides basic guidelines and examples for citing sources using A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, 7th edition, by Kate L. Turabian. Turabian style includes two options for citing sources: the notes-bibliography style and the author-date style. This guide covers the author-date style for writers who use parenthetical documentation in the text of their writing as a means of giving attribution to sources. Guidelines for creating parenthetical references are included on page 5 of this guide.

Parenthetical References

Parenthetical references should be placed at the end of the sentence, before the period, when a resource has been used. If the sentence is either long enough or complex enough so that the cited portion of the sentence is not obvious, the parenthetical reference may instead be inserted immediately after the use of information from the source. Page numbers should be included.

General Form: (Author Last Name Year of Publication, Page #)

Example: (Smith 1992, 142)

The following examples illustrate parenthetical reference formats for works with multiple authors:

Two authors: (Smith and Johnson 1998, 14)
 Three authors: (Smith, Johnson, and White 2001, 42)
 More than three authors: (Smith et al. 1998, 203)
 Corporate Authors: (National Alliance for Social Consideration 1932, 11)

When a text has a corporate or organizational author, the name of the organization may be shortened to its most basic title. Abbreviations for organizations are not encouraged.

Turabian does not offer examples for creating parenthetical references when there is no given author. Standard practice has been to include the title of the work in place of the author. The title should be formatted in the same manner as the formatting in the References list entry:

(Plagiarism and You 2002, 142) ("Five Ways to Protect Yourself" 2000, 33)

When there is no publication date listed for a source, include "n.d." (no date) in place of the date.

(Statistics for Water Rights n.d.)

For further information on using parenthetical documentation in the Turabian style, see pages 223-226 in A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, 7th edition.
